Positive Impacts	Negative Impacts
Two stocks generated returns more than 30%, with Schlumberger the top performer, with a return of nearly 40%.	While all stocks generated positive returns during the quarter, nine stocks underperformed the benchmark.

ECONOMIC AND MARKET PERSPECTIVE

- Markets rallied strongly in Q4 despite continued political and pandemic challenges, ending the quarter at or near all-time highs.
- Small stocks shook off their recent doldrums, with the Russell 2000 small cap index posting an eye-popping 32% quarterly return, double the tech-heavy NASDAQ index quarterly return.
- The elimination of election uncertainty supercharged markets, resulting in strong returns in both November and December.
- The economy continues to strengthen as indicated by a PMI Manufacturing index over 60 and a PMI Services index a very strong 57. The latter has been most impacted by the pandemic, so it is heartening to see this sector strengthen during the quarter.
- The employment market weakened towards the end of the quarter, as new hospitality lockdowns led to an increased number of layoffs. Without this impact, job growth would have continued throughout the quarter.
- Our market indicators strengthened during the quarter, with economic and technical measures very strong, behavioral measures normal to very strong, while valuation measures elevated.
- Disruption in the economy and markets has created unique opportunities and a more favorable environment for skilled active management.
- We believe that taking a long-term perspective and following a disciplined investment approach will be essential to successfully navigating the next year.

The portfolio delivers an attractive yield of 5.3%, nearly four times the benchmark yield of 1.4%. The portfolio's valuation ratios remain attractive.
